Welcome to our 2017/2018 concert season!

In the following pages you will discover the mix for which this concert series is renowned – from music of the 1550s to pieces that are hot off the page. The same variety is evident in our performers who include internationally-acclaimed musicians and our own student ensembles. I hope that our FlexiSavings scheme (see below) might encourage you to explore music that may be unfamiliar to you, be it old or new. These discounted tickets are now available online.

We welcome back several groups who are always popular with York audiences. I Fagiolini (31 January) present a typically energetic and eclectic programme. Parisian string quartet Quatuor Diotima (8 November) and viol consort Fretwork play classic music from their respective repertoires. Our Song Day (17 February) features the great James Gilchrist (also a soloist in War Requiem on 20 June) and the Baroque Day (5 May) focusses on the musical innovations of the Enlightenment. And don’t miss our two evenings of silent film with live music!

Do check our website for updates on concerts, especially those later in the season. You can also sign up to our regular newsletter for news and special offers. And for those who use social media, information is on Facebook and Twitter.

We look forward to welcoming you over the coming months!

All events take place in the Sir Jack Lyons Concert Hall unless indicated otherwise. The Rymer Auditorium is situated in the same building, and accessed through the same entrance.

For information about booking and directions please go to pages 25 to 27.

FlexiSavings
Create your own concert series!

Book for three or four concerts - 10% discount on each ticket
Book for five to seven concerts - 15% discount on each ticket
Book for eight or more concerts - 20% discount on each ticket

We offer generous discounts for multiple bookings, so you can create your own series of concerts – and the more you attend, the less you pay per concert! Why not take advantage of this offer to hear some unfamiliar music? You can make a multiple booking at any time up to, and including, the date of the first concert in your series.

The offer is available for all prices, including concessions but excluding student tickets.

FlexiSaving tickets are available online, in person or by phone and must be paid for at the time of booking, and be the same quantity for each concert – you may, of course, purchase additional tickets at any time. We are unable to refund money but if you subsequently find that you are unable to attend a concert, and let us know at least 24 hours in advance, we will be happy to credit the cost against tickets for another concert within this season, subject to a handling charge of £1.00 per transaction.

Please note that Day Tickets (17 February and 5 May) and tickets for British Music Society are not included in this discount scheme.
We are thrilled to open the concert season with The Swingles who bring their distinctive sound to songs marking life’s defining moments and rituals from countries as diverse as Afghanistan, Portugal, China and the Philippines.

This is, in the truest sense, folk music: music that gets to the heart of what it means to be human. With one of the most familiar names in the world of a cappella singing, the seven young singers that make up today’s London-based group are driven by the same innovative spirit that has defined the five-time Grammy® winners since they first made waves in the 1960s.

An evening of nostalgia, wonderment and silliness

In the film industry’s silent era, many films of both verve and variety adapted Shakespeare’s plays for popular audiences. Come and sample these rare, surviving old films in an evening that takes us on a tour of some fascinating, touching and entertaining Shakespearean moments from early film history. The evening will be animated by wonderful live music (played by pianist Jonny Best), by performance interjections from live actors and by lively commentary from Professor Judith Buchanan (University of York), an expert in silent cinema and in Shakespearean performance history.

Laginha, Argüelles, Norbakken Trio

Mário Laginha, piano
Julian Argüelles, saxophone
Helge Andreas Norbakken, percussion

Portuguese pianist Mário Laginha, English saxophonist Julian Argüelles and Norwegian percussionist Helge Andreas Norbakken are amongst Europe’s strongest musical personalities. In this new trio they combine gently propulsive grooves, complex but lyrical melodies, and generous interaction.

‘Effortless chemistry and shared sense of purpose’ All About Jazz
Matthew Brook brings his celebrated dramatic skill and virtuosity to this programme of Italian cantatas and theatre songs from the English Restoration.

Bach wrote only these two cantatas to Italian texts and Handel’s poignant setting was written whilst he lived in Rome before settling in London. Henry Purcell and his teacher John Blow are the two towering glitterati of the English Restoration and wrote extensively for the theatre. This selection includes ‘Let the dreadful engines of eternal force’, one of Purcell’s most famous compositions.

Eva Zöllner and Heather Roche present new pieces for their instruments with electronics. From Pierre Alexandre Tremblay’s sprawling asinglewordisnotenough4 with its meandering dissonances, noise and thumping rhythms, to new works by Luis Artunes Pena and Antti Saario. They add some recent solo collaborations: by Michelle Lou (for bass clarinet and Bluetooth speaker), Zeno Baldi (for clarinet and tape) and Farzia Fallah (for accordion and electronics).
This year’s student Practical Project (overseen by Robert Hollingworth and Omar Shahryar) is a devised project inspired by commedia dell’arte, the improvised comedy of 16th to 18th century Italy which was highly influential in France before its cousin arrived in England as ‘Punch and Judy’. In the 16th century madrigal comedies were inspired by it and later opera took up its characters (Figaro and others). The form inspired music by Orazio Vecchi, Pergolesi, Stravinsky and many others but – in typical ’Prac Proj’ style – who knows what the evening will bring?

Punch, Pierrot & Pantalone

Sitting between two classical quartets, the great quartet by Ravel is to be heard at its best in performance by French musicians who bring a native sensibility to its lush textures. Szymanowski fuses neo-classicism with the folk music of the Tatra mountains and Schubert’s final quartet is a pinnacle of the repertoire. Paris-based Quatuor Diotima’s reputation for clarity of performance in both classical and contemporary music has taken it to the Americas, Japan and throughout Europe. The Quartet is an Artist-in-Association at the University.

‘[The Quartet’s] tight discipline and obvious rapport produced impeccable, authoritative ensemble playing.’ Scotsman
Battleship Potemkin

1929, USSR, directed by Sergei Eisenstein with live, improvised score by Jonny Best piano and Trevor Bartlett percussion

Eisenstein’s epic dramatisation of the 1905 mutiny aboard the battleship Potemkin is regularly cited as one of the greatest films of all time. A tense, action-filled drama, this taught, 75-minute film is assembled from more than 13,000 individual shots, exemplifying Eisenstein’s view that editing (or montage) is the fundamental essential of film. The famous Odessa Steps sequence has been hugely influential with directors such as Terry Gilliam, Woody Allen and Brian De Palma all paying homage to it in their films.

A group like The 24 changes nearly half its personnel every autumn when it welcomes new students to the line-up. So the job of the year’s first concert is to establish house style and techniques while exposing everyone to music they’re unlikely to have come across elsewhere. This hour-long programme has no theme beyond that, but includes two Renaissance masterworks from quite different traditions and three completely contrasting pieces from the last 100 years that are both attractive and challenging.

Chimera's first programme of 2017/18 presents contemplative yet viscerally exciting music. Lichtbogen, inspired by the Northern Lights, seamlessly unites live electronics with nine instruments to create a work of ethereal beauty. And Drift – for sextet and electronics – also takes inspiration from the natural environment with its use of field recordings from Estonian bogs and lakes. Both are contrasted with Mark Appelbaum's humorous Catfish for percussion trio. Also featured is a new work by one of the joint winners of the Chimera undergraduate commission.

Walton and Prokofiev’s works come from the 1950s and are highly lyrical and somewhat nostalgic in tone. The concerto was Walton’s first major work to be written on Ischia and is full of Italian warmth. Leeds-born Zachary Owen recently graduated from the RNCM and will continue his studies in London and, in 2018, Los Angeles. Prokofiev’s last major work is often reminiscent of his ballet music. The programme is completed by Nicola LeFanu’s Threnody in celebration of her 70th birthday and the short, evocative tone poem by Scriabin.

Handel and the English Baroque
Ode for St Cecilia’s Day HWV 76
O Sing unto the Lord a New Song HWV 249

Handel’s beautifully intimate settings written for the first Duke of Chandos are among his less well-known but some of his loveliest works, and perfect examples of the composer’s English style. The annual celebrations for the name day of St Cecilia (22 November) inspired composers to dazzling new heights of creativity. At the 1739 festival Handel’s Ode to St Cecilia (setting the famous text by Dryden) enthralled London audiences with chorus, top-notch soloists and a splendid array of obbligato instruments – and some of his finest music.

Carmina Burana has enjoyed enormous popularity ever since its premiere in 1937, particularly in this arrangement for two pianos and six percussionists. The medieval texts, and Orff’s music, focus on the cycle of the turning wheel of fortune, dancing via the tavern, much gluttony and the Court of Love on the way. We are delighted to welcome Gareth Brynmor John, winner of the 2013 Kathleen Ferrier Award, in the demanding baritone role.

Constant Lambert’s setting of a poem by Sacheverell Sitwell combines jazz, ragtime and Brazilian influences with a traditional English choral sound and revels in the composer’s fascination with the exotic.

Beethoven Sextet in E flat op. 71
Mozart Serenade in C minor K.388
Weber Adagio and Rondo
Mozart Symphony no. 39 in E flat K.543

Boxwood & Brass is the UK’s only period-instrument Harmonie, the 18th-century wind ensemble beloved by Mozart and Beethoven. The ensemble’s programme revisits the world of Harmoniemusik and includes new arrangements made for the group in the best historical traditions. Formed in 2013, and praised for ‘spectacular playing’ and ‘button-bright performances’, Boxwood & Brass recently released its debut CD, ‘Music for a Prussian Salon’, to unanimous critical praise.
Trio Atem

Gavin Osborn flutes
Nina Whiteman mezzo soprano
Alice Purton cello

Programme to include:
Fabrice Fitch Per Serafino Calbarisi III: Antistrophes
Nina Whiteman House of Mazes

Trio Atem enters sonic labyrinths, navigates unfamiliar musical territories, and emerges amidst a puzzle of spoonerisms. Join the musicians for a varied programme of compositions commissioned by the ensemble, with the support of Arts Council England, as part of its tenth birthday celebrations.

Monteverdi’s desperately moving madrigal cycle laments the death of 18-year old singer, Caterina Martinelli. Two works from Monteverdi’s English contemporaries are astonishingly plangent while Janequin’s insane hunting scene from 80 years previously is Breugel come-to-life. Britten’s graphic solo-voice setting of medieval texts (written for Peter Pears’ ensemble) is a tour de force and, after a 1966 solo-voice soundscape sorbet, three contemporary sonnet settings complete a perfectly balanced meal.

Songs from the Heart

Song Day

Saturday 17 February
National Centre for Early Music

Mhairi Lawson soprano
James Gilchrist tenor
Peter Seymour fortepiano

Sian Haines soprano
Sam Gilliatt tenor
Nicky Losseff fortepiano

The National Centre for Early Music is a perfect setting for song recitals, and particularly those of intimate and expressive German Lieder which were written for, and originally performed in, private houses. Beethoven’s emotional An die ferne Geliebte (‘To the Distant Beloved’) and the dramatic portrayal of unrequited love in Schubert’s great song cycle Die schöne Müllerin are heard alongside songs by Schumann, Mozart, Zelter, Reichart and Hensel. As well as James Gilchrist (arguably the greatest interpreter of Die schöne Müllerin) and Mhairi Lawson we also hear two student singers selected from their outstanding recitals at the University. The fortepiano offers an appropriately sensitive accompaniment and surtitle translations will give ready access to the human emotions of the texts.

Charles Ives and John Cage were both prolific composers of song, setting words by the leading writers of their time including Beckett, Joyce and Whitman. Loré Lixenberg is particularly associated with Cage’s Songbooks, having made the first recording of them to great critical acclaim. Joseph Houston is an award-winning performer of contemporary repertoire, and an alumnus of the Department of Music.

‘Lixenberg is not just a good singer, she is a deeply theatrical performer, who constantly transgressed the boundaries of musical performance, inspired by Cage, with ease and astonishing results. Lixenberg has energy, wit and highly accomplished vocal abilities, which made her live performance a rare event.’

The 24 presents a touch of spring with sumptuous mid- and late-Romantic German part songs placed alongside late Renaissance and early Baroque motets and madrigals. It was the Italian influence (Monteverdi and others) on Schütz and Schein that brought lustre and a striking experimentation to their music as well as a reliance on Luther’s chorales. Over 300 years later, a cappella works by Brahms and his contemporaries were similarly conservative in form while infused with expressive and harmonic colouring.

Ranging soundscapes and fiery works make up Chimera’s first concert of the new year. Liza Lim’s Voodoo Child boils and bristles as it re-imagines the words of Sappho in a strikingly fierce way. Sciarrino’s sensitive and meditative Lo Spazio Inversio provides a quiet yet tense sound world while Tan’s On the Sensations of Tone II, scored for eight low instruments and hand-held radios, explores psychological aspects of tone. The concert will also feature a new work by one of the joint winners of the Chimera undergraduate commission.

Zemlinsky  Die Seejungfrau

James Williamson  Happy are they who dwell in Your house

Shostakovich  Suite from Lady Macbeth of Mtsensk

Zemlinsky's Die Seejungfrau, after Hans Christian Anderson's 'The Mermaid', is a richly evocative late-Romantic tone poem with hints of Mahler and Richard Strauss, underpinned by the composer's vivid and colourful imagination. Shostakovich revised his controversial opera Lady Macbeth of Mtsensk as Katerina Izmailova in 1962 when he also extracted this suite of five interludes. This programme is completed by the first performance of PhD student James Williamson's Sir Jack Lyons Celebration Award commission.

Mozart  Requiem in D minor K.626

Haydn  Mass in B flat (Maria Theresa Mass)

Part of the mystery and magic of Mozart's unfinished Requiem lies in the circumstances of its composition immediately before the composer's death. The University Choir, with the outstanding Royal Northern Sinfonia, performs it in the completion commissioned from Duncan Druc by the Yorkshire Bach Choir. This illuminates the work from a different standpoint, allowing a different view of this unique composition, and also adds movements based on re-discovered Mozart sketches. The joyful Maria Theresa Mass is in sharp contrast to the Requiem and shows Haydn's undimming compositional skill and imagination.

Crippled Symmetry

Richard Craig  flute
Damien Harron  percussion
Philip Thomas  piano, celeste

Morton Feldman's late, extended work Crippled Symmetry, for the unusual combination of flutes, percussion and piano/celeste, is a sustained exploration of patterns and repetition/variation. Over approximately 90 minutes the music quietly unfolds, richly and deceptively complex, the musicians carefully navigating their independent parts whilst maintaining a sense of the whole. This is a rare opportunity to hear it performed live by a trio of musicians brought together for this piece. The performance will be introduced by Philip Thomas with the performers in conversation with Dr Catherine Laws. (Please note start time)

Anna Camilla Goldbeck Wood  violin, vocals
Vanessa Hutchinson  double bass
Ruth Keggin  flute, vocals, whistles
Karl Kramer  guitar, bodhran, mandolin, vocals
David Pearce  guitar, vocals

Nish as Rish brings joy and verve to performing, writing and arranging folk music. Captivated by traditional Celtic music and influenced by the musicians' patchwork backgrounds, Nish's sound-world is rooted in Manx, Scottish and Irish music but also embraces elements of rock, Klezmer, medieval and classical. Nish – who met as students in the music department – have toured their special brand of music to folk festivals in the UK, Brittany and Norway.

and music by Mons Leidvin Takle

Kemp English is one of New Zealand’s leading concert performers and is in demand as a solo organist, collaborative pianist and specialist fortepiano exponent. His programme of classics from the organ repertoire is complemented by the energetic music of Norwegian composer Mons Leidvin Takle. He studied at the Royal Academy of Music and here at the University of York. Kemp English also takes part in Baroque Day on 5 May, when he gives a fortepiano recital.

The Singing Stone by sculptor Gordon Young was unveiled in June 2015 by Dame Janet Baker, a benefactor and former Chancellor of the University of York, to mark the 50th anniversary of the Department of Music. Carved from a glacial granite boulder, it incorporates one of Dame Janet’s favourite poems: The Cloths of Heaven by WB Yeats.
The world of music was not immune from the enormous social and political upheavals of the 18th century: ‘The Century Lights’. This year’s Baroque Day highlights the changes in style and taste that marked the transition from the late Baroque to Classical period and the rise of the string quartet and the symphony.

The Fidelio Trio plays two great works from the Viennese tradition. Schubert’s trio is full of charm with a light-heartedness found in none of the other works from his final months. With the exception of the eerie and unsettling second movement, from which it takes its name, the trio by Beethoven shares the good humour of the B flat work. The Trio enthusiastically champions the piano trio genre, performing on concert stages across the world, making recordings and building the repertoire with an impressive list of commissions and first performances.

Zamar is an enthusiastic and lively gospel choir made up of students from across the University and accompanied by a live band. Gospel tunes, worship music, contemporary music and musical theatre are full of the choir’s passion and enjoyment for singing.

Nikki Franklin draws on her work with The Spike Orchestra and their collaborations with John Zorn for this, her Sir Jack Lyons Celebration Award commission. She explores folk melodies and rhythms to capture the story of the Polish Displaced Persons of World War II. Exiled by the Russian Army to Siberian gulags, the consequent change of allegiance led to the creation of the Polish Army under General Anders and a journey across three continents, ending in Britain in the late 1940s at the Polish Resettlement Camps. Their story unfolds in this performance, supported by Polish and British musicians.

Rossini  Petite Messe Solennelle

Written in the last decade of his life, many years after his final opera, Rossini’s Mass is, pointedly, neither ‘petite’ nor, in a conventional sense, particularly ‘solennelle’. A veritable smörgåsbord of musical styles abound, including Renaissance polyphony, Baroque counterpoint, the hauntingly beautiful ‘Prelude religieux’ and the barnstorming tenor aria ‘Domine Deus’, undoubtedly the work of a great opera composer. Its unusual instrumentation of two pianos and harmonium provides great musical clarity as well as the ability to produce different variations in texture. Rossini’s last major work, it is a gigantic outpouring of praise that he clearly intended to be given sincerely and with great gusto.

Fausto Romitelli  Blood on the Floor, Painting

Michelle Agnes  Mobile for Solo Piano

Alexander Schubert  Sugar, Maths and Whips

Per Nørgård  Prelude to Breaking

Meredith Monk  Excerpts from Atlas Suite

Alexsandra Vrebalov  … hold me neighbour in this storm ...

Blood on the Floor, Painting is a brooding and violent piece. Sugar, Maths and Whips is a whimsical work that combines different styles and genres in a truly unique fashion. Mobile, for prepared solo piano, describes an imaginary mechanical sculpture. In contrast, Prelude to Breaking evokes the natural build up and breaking of waves. While …hold me, neighbour, in this storm… pairs string quartet with traditional Balkan sounds and instruments. The programme also includes excerpts from Monk’s Atlas Suite, Chimera’s professional commission and new works by student composers.

Plus lunchtime concert 1.15pm - £2 on the door or free to Music Society members.
Our annual end-of-year showcase gives the opportunity to hear some of the outstanding student performances from the past three terms. Repertoire typically ranges from the Baroque to the contemporary, giving a real insight into the breadth of study and the talent that makes this Department of Music so distinctive.

The final concert of the season also marks the centenary of the end of World War I with Britten’s searing non-liturgical setting of the Requiem Mass, commissioned for the 1962 consecration of Coventry Cathedral, rebuilt after its destruction in the Second World War. The traditional Latin mass text is interspersed with settings of poems by World War I poet Wilfred Owen. Three soloists are joined by chorus, boys’ choir, organ, and full and chamber orchestras. The latter provides intimate accompaniment to the settings of Owen’s poetry, here sung by English tenor James Gilchrist and German baritone Stephan Loges. Full orchestra is used for the Latin text sung by soprano Catrin Woodruff (a York alumna) and choirs. All forces come together for the devastating finale.

At the venue

Access
Sir Jack Lyons Concert Hall: via the walkway to the Concerts Halls entrance in the adjacent Music Research Centre. Please let us know in advance if you wish to book a space for a wheelchair and an adjacent seat for a companion.

Central Hall: there is a lift from the foyer to the upper level of the auditorium and an adapted toilet.

In the University car parks, special Drivers with Disabilities Only parking bays are provided in each car park and close to the concert halls. These spaces are for holders of Blue or Orange badges, or a University Disability Permit.

If you would like further information about access or would like assistance when you arrive, please contact the Box Office (01904 322439). National Centre for Early Music and York Minster are fully accessible. Please specify when booking if you need space for a wheelchair or have any other seating requirements.

Latecomers
We advise concert-goers to allow plenty of time for parking etc, particularly for Central Hall and Minster concerts. Latecomers can only be admitted at the discretion of the Duty Manager.

Refreshments
A bar, which also serves soft and hot drinks, and cakes, is open before concerts and during intervals in the Sir Jack Lyons Concert Hall and Central Hall; bar facilities are also available at the National Centre for Early Music.
How to find us

By car: take the York Ring Road to the junctions with the A19 or A1079/A166. The University is signposted from these junctions.

Where to park: Sir Jack Lyons Concert Hall & Rymer Auditorium: follow the signs for Wentworth Way at the roundabout at the top of University Road. Take the first turn left to Car Park D and follow the footpath signs to the Concert Halls Evening entrance.

Central Hall: Campus Central car park off University Road or Campus South car park off Heslington Lane and follow the footpath signs to Central Hall.

There is no charge for concert audiences after 6.30pm or at the weekend; at other times pay and display facilities are available in Campus Central and Campus North car parks. If you come to the Box Office during afternoon opening, you may use one of the short-stay spaces in the car park in front of the Information Centre in Market Square.

By bus: First York service no. 66 leaves the railway station approximately every ten minutes during the day taking around 20 minutes to get to the University; evening buses run approximately every 15 minutes from campus. The route goes through the city centre via Merchantgate and Heslington Road. There are bus stops (marked B on the map above) on University Road for both halls.

Contact York bus Information (01904 551400) for full details of times and route, or see www.firstgroup.com/york.

By foot: The campus is about 20 minutes' walk from the city centre.
